Jap Government To Arrest Men Wanted by Allies

Konoye Claims He Tried to Head Off War—New American Landings Planned Next Week

TOKIO, Sept. 13 (AP).—The Japanese Government, at its own request, was entrusted today with the task of arresting suspected war criminals, possibly to head off a hara-kiri epidemic among the accused.

A high Government authority in Washington said the United States hopes for quick, vigorous action against Japanese war criminals similar to measures taken against Germany's guilty.

The Japanese Cabinet in special session wrestled with the problem of what to do with elements within the Government that may be unsavory to Gen. MacArthur and his army of occupation.

As one step, the chief Cabinet secretary, Taketora Ogata, was stripped of his position as president of the Board of Information (propaganda), but for the moment at least he clung to his Cabinet position.

Some Japanese sources, including the superintendent of the Tokyo police, denied that Ogata belonged to the Black Dragon Society of terrorists, as Gen. MacArthur's headquarters charged in ordering his arrest.

Prince Fumimaro Konoye, vice-premier, conferred with Gen. MacArthur at the Supreme Commander's headquarters.

Earlier Konoye declared in an interview that as Premier just before the attack on Pearl Harbor, he had tried to head off war by arranging a meeting with President Roosevelt. He said his plans were frustrated by the military and Japan's own international reputation "as a liar."

The even tenor of occupation was maintained, meanwhile, with the Japanese Government announcing the dissolution of two hotbeds of militarism and aggression.

In accordance with Gen. MacArthur's demands, Imperial Headquarters was disbanded, and 15,220 students of the naval college were dismissed.

Emperor Hirohito was advised of the dissolution of Imperial Headquarters, set up in 1940 to co-ordinate army and navy operations, by three of Japan's top-ranking military.

They were Gen. Yoshifuro Umuza, army chief of staff who signed the surrender documents; Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, navy chief of staff; and Gen. Sugamori Shimomura, Minister of War.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced that Gen. Walter Krueger would arrive at the Western Kyushu naval base of Saebu September 20 to arrange for the landings of his United States Sixth Army of Occupation two days later.

The following day the United States Eighth Army of Occupation will begin moving into Northern Japan's port of Aomori.

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Times.

(Copyright, 1945, by Bonham Co.)

LONDON, Sept. 13 (CP).—The Government's inevitable twilight period between taking office and getting visibly to work won't end until Parliament meets next month, says The Times editorially today, but a large section of public opinion, including new supporters of the Government, already are anxious that a prompt, unmistakable earnest of action in all fields should then be given.

Commenting on Prime Minister Atlee's speech to the Trades Union Congress yesterday, the editorial says the dependence at home and patience and hard work, and abroad on goodwill and understanding can not provide a substitute for decisive action by the Government.

It is only in the most general sense true that people, and the people alone, can save civilization. During the years ahead policies which the people do not support will undoubtedly fail, but the policies which alone will succeed must be promulgated by the Government which the people have chosen. Exhortation and goodwill can never be enough.

Leadership must be practical, precise and positive and it can not be expected, in a world ridden by suspicion and recrimination, that all nations and all interests can be equally pleased. In peace, as in war, the British people will respond to any just appeal but will look first for a clear lead from their chosen leaders.

The Times notes with gratification that General MacArthur is appointed.

Japs Surrender

Return to British

RANGOON, Sept. 13 (Reuters).—Gen. Ichida signed in the Government House here today the Japanese surrender of Burma to Britain's Twelfth Army.

"You will be given the instrument of surrender," said Brig. E. F. E. Armstrong, Twelfth Army Chief of Staff, "and you will sign it."

Ichida, his face impassive, accepted the instrument and signed.

Partnership In Mayhew Firm Sold

Confirmation that W. Garfield Weston, Vancouver financier, had purchased an interest in the Sidney Roofing & Paper Co. Ltd. and its subsidiaries came yesterday with an announcement by Logan Mayhew, managing director, that Mr. Weston had been made a partner in the firm.

Subsidiaries of the company include a Vancouver factory on False Creek and the National Paper Box Company, also at Vancouver.

Mr. Mayhew said the $250,000 plant expansion program in Victoria will continue, and there will be no change in policy. R. W. Mayhew, M.P., will remain president and Logan Mayhew managing director. The Mayhew family will retain its interest in the firm.

"All members of the company, new and old, look forward to the future with optimism," Mr. Mayhew stated. "Planned expansion will continue as rapidly as possible, the first being a contract awarded to Luning Bros. Ltd. for immediate construction of a new warehouse and a building to house the ground-wood pulp mill. The Luning Bros. contract is for $24,000, and relocation of the existing machinery, to be done by the Sidney Roofing & Paper Company's own millwright specialists, will run the value of this first piece of work to over $30,000."

"This is the first step to construction of a completely modern roofing machine of much greater capacity than the existing machine, and this is urgently needed to care for the roofing needs of the construction industry which is so busy trying to overcome the regrettable housing shortage," he explained.

Acquisition of an interest in the company and its subsidiaries by Mr. Weston is expected to result in further expansion of business. The National Paper Box Company may supply boxes for confectionery and biscuit concerns west of Winnipeg in which Mr. Weston has sizable interest, and for Western Grocers, Ltd., and the W. H. Malkin Company, Ltd., which are Western-controlled.

R. W. Mayhew entered the Sidney Roofing & Paper Company during the Great War and later acquired control. After the war the company underwent rapid expansion and moved to its present location on the west side of Victoria Harbor. The Victoria plant supplies paper to the National Paper Box Company, and in addition sells paper on the open market. It is also a producer of rubber roofing and certain other patented roofing products.

The deal marks Mr. Weston's entry into the paper industry on the Pacific Coast. He already controls the F. B. Eddy and Booth Mills at Ottawa.

Another Japanese Official Suicide

TOKIO, Sept. 14 (Friday) (AP).—United States headquarters announced today it had been informed that Chikahiko Kozumi, 61, Minister of Welfare in Hideki Tojo's Cabinet at the Pacific war's outset, had committed suicide.

Kozumi was on the list of those Gen. MacArthur had ordered arrested.

He was the second former Cabinet member to take his own life this week.

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (CP).—Action to modify wartime freezing of apartment rentals imposed October 15, 1941, is demanded in a brief forwarded today to Finance Minister Riley and all members of Parliament by the Apartment Owners' Association of Toronto. A ten per cent rental increase is suggested. The association said costs of maintenance, services and materials have advanced since 1941 and that rents were pegged at the 1940 level.

He also told the assemblage of Koreans, many of whom had sharply criticized the continued use of Japanese functionaries, that he had removed Taduo Nishihira, director of the police bureau of the Government General of Korea.

Japanese Lose Posts in Korea

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 13.—Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge has announced the dismissal from office of Nobuyuki Abe, Governor-General of this former Japanese possession.

The announcement was made Wednesday by the general at a conference with about 1,000 delegates from 51 Korean groups, including 33 political or semi-political parties.

He also told the assemblage of Koreans, many of whom had sharply criticized the continued use of Japanese functionaries, that he had removed Taduo Nishihira, director of the police bureau of the Government General of Korea.

Two Troop-Trains

VANCOUVER, Sept. 13 (CP).—Two troop trains carrying 187 repatriated British Columbia airmen will arrive here Sunday, officials of Western Air Command announced today.

The men are from the troopship Nieuw Amsterdam, which docked in Canada last week.

Harvey, of Trenton, N.J., adjusts the cellophane covering on his feet, both of which are infected because of lack of medical care. Pte. Olsen was captured in Hong-kong on December 25, 1941, and was imprisoned by the Japanese until liberated recently.

Belfast in Tribute To Montgomery

ISBURN, Northern Ireland, Sept. 13 (Reuters).—Field Marshal Montgomery, who is to receive the freedom of Belfast tomorrow, arrived at Long Kesh airbase near here today on his first visit to Northern Ireland since 1937.

In an interview the commander of the British occupation forces in Germany paid tribute to the part played by the men and women of Northern Ireland in the fighting services.

Balkan States To Be Subject

LONDON, Sept. 13 (CP).—While the "Big Five" Council of Foreign Ministers today took time off for translation and study of a series of documents, State Secretary Byrnes of the United States summoned his Southeastern European representatives for an anticipated airing of the turbulent Balkan political situation by the council.

The disclosure that these key American representatives had been called to London was made by United States Embassy sources after Mr. Byrnes conferred with King Peter of Yugoslavia and the Greek Regent, Archbishop Damaskinos.

When the council resumes its scheduled discussions tomorrow on the drafting of a peace settlement for Italy, Mr. Byrnes will have at hand Arthur Bliss Lane, Ambassador in Warsaw; Robert Patterson, Ambassador in Belgrade; Maynard Barnes, Minister in Sofia; and Burton V. Berry, American representative on the Allied Control Commission in Bucharest. They arrived by plane today.

The potentially explosive Balkan situation was brought into the "Big Five" discussions by British and American insistence that representative, democratic regimes be established before there is any discussion of peace treaties for Hitler's former satellites.

There was no confirmation for reports circulating in London that Russia had established to discuss the Romanian situation during the conference. Diplomatic observers said that from a purely diplomatic standpoint Russia would not make such a move, since it would bar using Romania as a lever in Italian and other subjects.

Mr. Byrnes' talks with King Peter and Archbishop Damaskinos were considered significant because of their general relations to the Balkan question but no details were announced.

Early Transfer for Naval Headquarters

Headquarters of the Royal Canadian Navy on the Pacific Coast will be returned to Esquimalt next month, it was reported yesterday.

Rear Admiral Victor G. Brodeur, C.B.E., officer commanding Pacific Coast, is at present discussing the matter with heads of the naval service at Ottawa.

Not long ago it was announced headquarters would be returned toward the end of the year, or early in 1946, but the sudden capitulation of Japan has made the transfer possible at an earlier date.

A staff of more than 100 officers and men is expected to be transferred here with G.O.P.C.

Naval headquarters were moved from Esquimalt to Vancouver in 1942. Since that time the staff has expanded considerably and much new equipment has been added.

The transfer will mean a new and significant role for Esquimalt, and this area as a whole. Esquimalt will now share with Halifax in the accommodation of Canada's enlarged navy.

With an estimated peacetime establishment of 15,000 officers and men of the Royal Canadian Navy, it is likely that 5,000 of them will be stationed ashore or afloat in this area.

Supply of equipment for naval ships stationed here will mean considerable work for local shipyards.

It is expected that many new families will arrive here, as men of the permanent force usually bring their families to a station during the period of their commission.

Whether Rear Admiral Brodeur will return to Esquimalt as C.O.P.C. is not known. He returned to this Coast after Commodore W. J. R. Beech was transferred to the Atlantic Coast.

A lieutenant in charge of Esquimalt when the First Great War started. At that time there was one ship here, H.M.C.S. Rainbow. Before the Great War had ended, facilities had been enlarged, and Admiral Storey was in command.

When war broke out in 1939, the rank of Esquimalt commanding officer was boosted to captain. When H.M.C.S. Giverny and H.M.C.S. Naden big training program was curtailed in order to direct men through H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, the past has been held by a commander, recent appointees being R.C.N.V.R. members.

Ford Strike Is Deadlocked

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 13 (CP).—The Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., tonight broadcast an announcement to its office employees telling them to report for work tomorrow and saying assurances had been received of police protection to enable them to pass picket lines which barred entrance to the sprawling 240-acre property of the strike-bound plant this morning.

The brief announcement said: "The main office of the company will report for business tomorrow, Friday morning. All main office employees of the company should report at their regular starting time. Assurance has been received that adequate police protection will be accorded all persons lawfully seeking entrance to the company's office."

The company appealed during the day to Police Chief Claude Renaud for action to enable the 1,000 or so office employees to go to work.

The company request was discussed by the police commission, which instructed the chief to have his force exercise its judgment in handling picket lines. Tonight Chief Renaud said he did not interpret his instructions from the commission as assuring police protection.

The strike, although only in its second day, appeared indefinitely deadlocked, with no move from either party for a settlement of the dispute.

Lawyer Released

NEW DELHI, Sept. 13 (CP).—The Government disclosed today the release of Sarat Chandra Bose, wealthy Calcutta lawyer detained since 1941. He is the elder brother of Subhas Chandra Bose, Indian politician who went over to the side of Japan and was reported by Tokyo to have died in an airplane accident last month.

Prices Board Will Confer With Meat Dealers on Ration

Protest Meetings Gain Retailers Hearing—More Centres Join Criticism of Officials

Canada's meat rationing problem moved from behind the counters of innumerable butcher shops across the country yesterday to the floor of the House of Commons where Finance Minister Ilsley announced that officials of the Prices Board will meet next Wednesday with Dominion retail merchants to discuss rationing with them.

This was a partial victory for the men who keep stores in the many towns and cities in the Dominion. It did not promise them that their headaches caused by reintroduction of rationing would be cured, but it did prove that the protest meetings they have been holding for days now had gained them a hearing.

Meanwhile, Victoria meat retailers are standing firm on their proposal for a 20 per cent cut in the domestic Canadian meat quota as an alternative to rationing. C. A. Conrad, acting chairman of the Vancouver Island Retail Meat Dealers' Association, said after a meeting of the group's committee last night.

Lacking word on the stand taken by Vancouver meat retailers at a meeting last night, the committee took no further action on a resolution passed last Monday proposing a stoppage of sales if the Government did not discontinue rationing.

The Vancouver meeting was closed and officials said later no statement would be released until today. A representative of Victoria meat dealers was present.

Saying that some of the public had the impression that meat retailers were opposed to the sending of meat to Europe, Mr. Conrad declared: "Canada could send more meat overseas if the 20 per cent quota reduction were adopted, and there would be less wastage at home. By rationing, the Government proposes to reduce consumption only 12 per cent."

Say Meat Pies Going to Waste

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (CP).—Delicatessen owners today suggested remission of meat rationing as it applies to meat pies, sausage, meat loaves and similar items which they say have been going to waste because "no one wants to give up coupons for them."

Large retailers said they had tossed away 2,000 meat pies already this week and sold 8,000 more as pig feed. Smaller owners said 24 to 100 dozen pies in their stock had gone to waste.

To Decide Soon On Question of Liquor Act Poll

British Columbians will know this week whether they will be called upon to vote on October 25 on changing liquor law in the province. The Cabinet's decision must be made this week if the plebiscite is to be taken at the same time as the election, it was learned at the Legislative Buildings yesterday.

While no member of the Cabinet will talk officially about a liquor plebiscite, beyond the statement of Premier John Hart that it has been "under consideration," it is known that it has been discussed at length in Government circles.

A possible factor is the servicemen's view of the present liquor law in the light of their experiences elsewhere in Canada, in the United States and overseas.

Many servicemen have taken a definite stand favoring something after the style of the English "pub," adapted to British Columbia conditions.

Just what question might be asked in a plebiscite is a matter of speculation. It is considered probable, however, that British Columbia electors might be asked to state whether or not they approve of sale of wine and beer at dining places.

Hotel and resort owners have been assessing the possibility of revision of the liquor law, and some have even gone so far as to consider alterations to premises.

Munitions Explode

ROME, Sept. 13 (AP).—A munitions dump near Genoa blew up today, killing at least two persons and wounding more than a hundred, the Anso Agency reported. Cause has not been determined.

Victoria Bakeries May Have to Close Due to Shortage of Lard

Small bakeries may be forced to shut down for at least a month as Victoria faces a scarcity of lard and shortening greater than at any time during the war, according to packing house and bakery officials. Larger concerns, whose pastry and cake output is already drastically curtailed, expect further reductions, and indications were given that the shortage of lard may cause curtailment in bread production.

Housewives, who for some time have had difficulty in obtaining supplies, are likely to be left out of the picture entirely as available quantities are directed to commercial bakers and the armed forces, it was revealed by packing houses.

W. S. Norrington, secretary of the B.C. Bakers' Association, was at Vancouver yesterday conferring with War-time Prices and Trade Board officials with a view to obtaining some relief.

Reductions of from 30 to 50 per cent in hog production throughout Canada this year is given as one main reason for the shortage of lard. Shipment of large quantities of pork to the United Kingdom has caused a further reduction in domestic supplies.

It is pointed out that overseas shipments are made up of whole carcasses or quarters, and consequently no strippings are available for rendering into lard.

Shortening manufactured in Canada depends on imports of vegetable oil from the United States and the West Indies. Dealers state that no supplies of oil have been forthcoming for some time and none are expected in the near future. Some bakers expressed the opinion that the United States was at present using its entire production of vegetable oil, while others blamed the Canadian shortage on shipping difficulties.

"I have been here more than 30 years," one wholesaler remarked yesterday, "and I have never seen a shortage to compare with the present one, which is prevalent all over Canada."

"Furthermore," he added, "I do not see any possibility of improvement for some time."

40,000 FLYING

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (CP).—E. G. Hirst, manager and director of the Aircraft Industry Relations Committee, today told a service club, that already 40,000 Canadians are flying each month. He estimated Canada will have 25,000 private planes within the next ten years and 15,000 by 1950.

Nazis Listed Britishers for Arrest if Invasion Succeeded

BERLIN, Sept. 13 (AP)—Heinrich Himmler's Gestapo prepared for the invasion of Britain in 1940 by compiling a list of more than 2,300 persons ranging from Winston Churchill to obscure Jewish refugees for automatic arrest.

Three American correspondents were included in the list wanted by the German police.

These were Daniel De Luce, Associated Press correspondent; M. W. Fodor, and Donald Day, representative of The Chicago Tribune, last reported at Riga, British Intelligence Service, Latvia. A man who described himself as Donald Day later became a commentator on the Nazi radio.

The present French provisional President was listed merely as "De Gaulle, former French general."

Prominent refugees included the novelist, Stefan Zweig; the former Polish Premier and pianist, Ignace Paderewski; Dr. Hermann Rauschning, former president of the Danzig Senate; the Czechoslovak leaders, Dr. Eduard Benes and Jan Masaryk; the former Polish Premier, Stanislaw Mikolajczyk; Dr. Ernst Hanfstaengl, Hitler's pianist; Dr. Wilhelm Freud, and Polish Bishop Jozef Gawline.

Political leaders listed included Prime Minister Atlee; Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal Party leader; and Sir Stafford Cripps. Also named was Sir Walter Citrine, general secretary of the Trades Union Congress.

Seamen Asking New Agreement

OTTAWA, Sept. 13 (CP)—With the warning that the success of Canada's foreign trade will depend largely on her merchant fleet, the Canadian Seamen's Union laid before the National War Labor Board today an application seeking approval of three points to be included in an agreement with the Park Steamship Company of Montreal, Crown company that owns the nation's ocean-going ships.

A three-man board, under Mr. Justice M. B. Archibald, took the application into consideration after a two and a half hour hearing of argument, in which the company opposed each of these points raised by the union:

1. All ratings to be paid overtime rates of 75 cents an hour.
2. Members of stewards' department to get overtime payment while working in port Saturday afternoons and Sundays.
3. That if the war risk bonus is declared finished or modified, the parties meet within 30 days to discuss consequent adjustments and the question of basic rates of pay shall be reopened.

For the company, Capt. J. S. Thomson replied, in brief:

1. It was not accepted practice in industry. A man was paid for what he could do. Not all men were of the same value.
2. We consider the catering department has to function seven days a week. That is acknowledged by the stewards when they go aboard a ship.
3. The basic rate was acceptable to the union in the 1943 agreement and no circumstances have arisen whereby justification of an increase in the basic rate can be demanded. The bonus is a thing apart.

On the third point, the company suggested clauses ruling that the union should not request wage changes while the agreement lasts and that the bonus "may" be ended after "cessation of risk to vessel or crew."

Meat Ration

of the Ontario Livestock Exchange charging large quantities of meat were going had in Toronto warehouses because wartime prices Board could not handle any more, by saying that the carry-over of 3,600 head was due to the fact the weighing capacity of the market could not handle the week-end intake. He denied that it was due to lack of buyers.

In their protest, the members of the Livestock Exchange had telegraphed Agriculture Minister Gardner, with a copy to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, that since rationing "local butchers are doing no business, and many shops are closing up." They suggested that it be permitted to ship excess cattle to the United States.

PROTESTS WIDED TO JOHN BRACKEN

To John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, they wired that prices were lower due to unnecessary Government restrictions, and that there was a serious situation facing cattle producers.

Meanwhile, retail butchers across the country continued to protest rationing.

Calgary meat dealers will go on strike on September 24 unless the present meat rationing system is modified or rescinded, they decided at a meeting last night.

The meeting was closed to the press, but a statement was released afterwards.

It is understood that about 60 dealers were at the meeting, and that in the discussion some of them opposed the strike resolution. However, it was overwhelmingly carried.

In Ottawa, Alderman Martin Walsh placed on the City Council order paper a motion asking that the city go on record approving of the suggested plan of butchers to refrain from selling meat for a week unless the Government submits sufficient evidence to justify the re-introduction of rationing.

This was in line with decisions made in Edmonton where 150 butchers said they would strike on September 24 unless rationing problems were eased, and in the Halifax-Dartmouth area where a meeting will be held to sanction a strike for the same date. Eight New Brunswick centres will be meatless after September 24, butchers say, unless something is done.

ISSUE FIGURES ON MEAT STOCKS

At Ottawa tonight Prices Board officials issued figures showing stocks of meat were down from last year.

On September 13, 1944, board officials said there were approximately 70,000,000 pounds of meat in storage, including 40,000,000 pounds of pork, 21,000,000 pounds of beef, 8,000,000 pounds of veal and 3,000,000 pounds of mutton.

Victoria local of the Retail Clerks Union will discuss meat rationing during its regular meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at Liberal headquarters.

At the Monday meeting of Victoria meat retailers there will be the election of officers of the association. Name of the association was decided on at a committee meeting.

Boss of Korea

GEN. NOBUYUKI

Japanese Governor-General of Korea, who will remain in office as head of Japanese administrative forces to rule Korea under United States supervision.

In protesting meat rationing, North Bay dealers qualified their statement with the provision that a representative number of municipalities across Canada would be required to take similar action.

Demand for fish and poultry increased greatly in Victoria this week, but supplies of both were plentiful. Most fishing boats have been bringing in good catches in recent weeks and many varieties of poultry are now in the packing period, being in surplus supply and selling at prices from 2 to 4 cents less per pound than from the early part of the year until August 31.

FISH AND FOWL PRICES PEGGED

According to information supplied yesterday by Victoria office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, shellfish and four classifications of fish products and live and dressed fowl, turkeys, ducks and geese are all under price ceilings.

Retail ceiling prices for dressed roasters and fryers remain constant until the end of the year at figures ranging from 33 cents per pound for loose grade "C" birds to 44 cents per pound for special grade milked birds. Prices for broiler chickens, now varying from 36 to 47 cents per pound, will range from 29 to 48 cents after September 30.

Hens go up in price next month by one cent to 36 cents a pound for grade "A" birds, but old roosters stand at prices ranging from 20 to 27 cents until the end of the year.

Best turkeys will drop in price from 50 to 46 cents per pound at the beginning of November.

Retailers are paying 14½ cents per pound for live cod, 21 cents for halibut, from 17½ to 29½ cents for spring salmon, and 18½ cents for coho. They add transportation charges and a fixed markup.

"VEHEMENT PROTEST" FROM GROCERS' BODY

A resolution of "vehement protest" against meat rationing was adopted last night by the executives of the New Brunswick and Moncton grocers' associations.

The resolution termed the rationing "unnecessary and even detrimental and wasteful, as well as unpopular with the public and retail trade."

A demand was made at an Ottawa Liberal caucus that meat rationing be lifted and the production of pork and beef be stimulated through a price increase for cattle-men and farmers, it was learned last night.

Several private Liberal members of Parliament and a Liberal Senator joined in advocating payment by the Government of an additional two-cents-a-pound subsidy to producers.

They argued a subsidy would restore hog production, off more than a third this year, and bring a large enough volume of livestock to the slaughter houses that both domestic and overseas requirements for meat could be met without rationing.

It was understood the members were informed the Government intended to "stand pat" on rationing "for the time being anyway."

American Troops Helping Chinese

CHUNGKING, Sept. 13 (CP)—Mission of American troops now in China is "in general terms" to facilitate Chinese reoccupation of areas formerly held by the enemy, and make them secure, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer said today.

The United States Commander in Chief in the China theatre told a press conference a "goodly portion" of his troops may be home for Christmas, depending on the speed with which the task is completed.

He said transfer of authority from the Japanese to the Chinese and the disarming of the enemy was "going very smoothly and I can't visualize any difficulties on a larger scale." Thus far, there have been no official reports of serious incidents, he said.

No Property Sale

KELOWNA, Sept. 13 (CP)—For the first time in the history of the city of Kelowna the annual property tax sale will not be held this year. The reason for this is that since 1941 building permit values have been showing a steady increase and owners of property have been making every effort to keep up their tax payments.

Brigadier Cabeldu Awarded Bar to D.S.O. in Honor List

Brig. Frederick N. Cabeldu, D.S.O. and Bar, of Victoria, has received a Bar to the D.S.O. His was one of 68 gallantry awards to personnel of the Canadian Army who served in Northwest Europe and announced

National Defence.

Brig. Frederick Norman Cabeldu, D.S.O. and Bar, E.D., was born in England in July, 1905. He was an investment broker in Victoria when he joined the Active Army as a major September 1, 1939. He went overseas in August, 1941, and confirmed in the rank of lieutenant-colonel in November, 1943, and was promoted brigadier in March, 1945. Brig. Cabeldu received the Efficiency Decoration in 1943, and was awarded the D.S.O. for gallantry in action during the invasion of France in June, 1944. His wife, Mrs. Helen J. Cabeldu, two daughters, Annette, 12, and Dulcie, 7, and a son, John, reside at 622 Falkland Road, Victoria.

His citation reads: "Brigadier Cabeldu commanded No. 4 Canadian Infantry Brigade in action in Western Europe since August 31, 1944. The brigade established an enviable reputation and has been most successful in battle due in no slight degree to the able leadership and sound tactical knowledge of its commander. During the period February 19 to March 8, 1945, No. 4 Canadian Infantry Brigade successfully completed some of the most difficult tasks ever assigned it. On February 19-20, they seized and held, in spite of the desperate efforts of crack German troops, the Louisaud Forest, vital to the success of the divisional assault on the Goch-Calcars Road. Later they cleared the northern half of the Hochwald Forest in a brilliantly executed operation and against the enemy who died in great numbers, maiming their weapons to the last. On March 8, standard-bearer.

Nominate Carson As Coalitionist

KAMLOOPS, Sept. 13 (CP)—Robert H. Carson was nominated here tonight as Coalition candidate for Kamloops in the October 25 Provincial general elections. Carson was a Coalition Liberal member of the last Legislature.

Provincial Secretary Pearson told a public meeting following the nominating convention that British Columbia enjoys the highest standard of living in the world and that he could see no reason why the people should try an experiment in socialism.

Mr. Carson is the third candidate to be nominated to run in Kamloops. Mayor George R. Williams of Kamloops is the C.P.F. nominee and C. S. Cook the Labor Progressive standard-bearer.

200 Hunt for Missing Child

VANCOUVER, Sept. 13 (CP)

Nearly 200 persons began tonight an inch-by-inch search of an East End Vancouver district for four-year-old Dianne Blunt, who has been missing since Tuesday afternoon.

set out to cover brush, manholes, garages and vacant houses. The organized search ended when darkness settled and was scheduled to resume tomorrow morning.

Detectives were checking a report by a four-year-old boy that he saw Dianne get in to a "dirty old truck" which was driven away by a "dirty old man" a block from the Blunt home sometime Tuesday.

A swimming pool in the same district as the Blunt home was partially drained, but no sign of the child was found.

When a fellow needs a real friend

BAD? No.

The war deprived him of wholesome influence and restraint, otherwise he probably wouldn't have slipped. There are many — far too many like him.

Let's face our solemn responsibilities to these footloose boys and girls. Whether they become assets or liabilities to the community is up to us. It IS in our power to see that they get the training necessary to useful citizenship.

The highly essential local agencies devoted to the spiritual, mental and physical upbuilding of delinquent or underprivileged youth can be counted upon to adequately reinforce their work. But they must have your continued and increasing support, both moral and financial.

The campaign to raise funds necessary to meet today's alarming threat to the Home Front is underway. Give because you care — and give generously.

Variety of Subjects Debated; Member Asks $60 Pensions

OTTAWA, Sept. 13 (CP).—Requests ranging from the abolition of income tax on all incomes of $5,000 a year and less to the establishment of a bill of rights for the minorities in Canada were heard today in the Commons as the Throne speech debate continued.

F. H. Asby, (Social Credit, Edmonton East), who turned farmer on his return from the First Great War, asked for the tax abolition in his maiden speech and said his constituents wanted increased old age pensions and a reduction in the taxes on consumer goods.

The request for a minority bill of rights came from another member, Alistair Stewart, (C.P.F., Winnipeg North), who claimed there was need for such a bill because of racial discriminations in Canada.

A variety of other suggestions were heard from other speakers, among whom were J. M. MacDonnell, (P.C., Muskoka-Ontario), Maxime Raymond, (B.P., Beauharnois-LaPrairie), and H. A. Archibald, (C.C.F., Skeena).

Mr. Asby, short, stocky member of the party which advocates monetary reforms, said the people of his constituency wanted pensions of $60 a month at the age of 50. They wanted the taxes on consumer goods to be reduced so as to bring prices below the pre-war standard. Through tax reductions and increased allowances to the people there would be created purchasing power which would enable Canadians to buy the things they always have wanted.

He warned that veterans of this war were not going to stand for treatment such as was accorded veterans of the First Great War. He personally promised to give to veterans the name of every member of Parliament who did not demand that the needs of veterans be filled. And veterans would see that such members were not served by them.

Before the war the people could not buy food because they had no money and the Government could not provide work because it claimed it had no money. Money was found aplenty when war came. The war had not been fought between peoples. The people had been used by dictators both visible and hidden to gain advantage for themselves.

The Government had to learn that its sole source of revenue was from the people. It was impossible to have a prosperous people by making them pay in taxes the money that would make them prosperous.

Mr. Stewart said there was discrimination in Canada against the Jews, colored people, the Poles, Ukrainians and other racial groups. This discrimination not only exists in immigration laws, but also was found in educational institutions.

URGENT REMOVAL OF WARTIME CONTROLS

Mr. MacDonnell said that the final decision on the removal of wartime controls should be left to Parliament. Cabinet Ministers were too busy to be in close touch with situations and senior officials in charge of controls believed in their work and could not take an impartial view on the abandoning of controls.

Mr. Raymond called for immediate adoption of the Throne speech. Prolonged discussion in the debate only delayed the introduction of Government legislation.

Mr. Archibald said that as a new member and an industrial worker Parliament seemed to him divorced from reality.

The Throne speech sounded to him like the Liberal program advanced by former Premier Duff Pattullo in British Columbia in 1933. He had taken part in many of the strikes and demonstrations of unemployed at that time and all the workers got from Mr. Pattullo was the advice to "root, hog, or die."

Recently a statement just as brutal had been made by reconstruction Minister Howe.

The workers in those days were met with tear gas and clubs. The black list was common on jobs.

"Are we to expect that again or are we to have a strong, militant trade union movement to protect the workers?" he asked.

H. W. Herridge, (People's C.C.F., Kootenay West), said he entered

Offers His Aircraft To Carry Soldiers

CANBERRA, Sept. 13 (Reuters).—The Duke of Gloucester, Governor-General of Australia, has offered his new York aircraft to Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Southeast Asia commander, to provide a shuttle service between Australia and Singapore carrying sick prisoners to Australia and medical supplies to Singapore.

The House under unusual political conditions. He was nominated by the C.C.F. organization in his riding as a supporter of the Regina manifesto and the general national program of the C.C.F. He had support from trade unions, farmers and veterans' organizations but because of differences in the party sat as a people's C.C.F. representative.

In the building of a permanent peace the organizing of people in different groups apart from Governments would play a great part, said Mr. Herridge. The Canadian Federation of Agriculture was to be congratulated for the part it is taking in promoting a world congress of agriculture.

There should be other organizations supported by Governments to bring people together. Instead of erecting monuments of stone to the dead from the war it would be a good thing to establish a fund to enable some teen-age children from every constituency to visit other countries and attend international youth conferences.

Mr. Herridge said he did not believe capitalism was going to collapse. Instead he thought the world was entering a period of state capitalism in which the larger industries would be financed from Government funds.

"In my opinion this will be a most dangerous time," he said. "It will prove whether we are to go into a totalitarian economy or become a genuine democracy and a co-operative commonwealth."

parently executing the terms of the Potsdam ultimatum with speed and precision. It is evident that the Supreme Commander is determined no class of war criminals shall evade responsibility for misdeeds.

This encourages hope, an editorial on the subject continues, that the small inner ring of the governing class of Japan, which so often has pulled the strings to which the Tojo and Shimada danced, will be brought to the same stern justice as confronts those who overtly wielded power. Only torrible subjection of every Japanese leader to standards of conduct accepted by the civilized world will convince the Japanese people that the country can no longer remain a law unto itself.

The Times financial editor sees possible dangers in the approaching oil conference to arrange a new Anglo-American agreement which is starting in London Monday, with interior secretary Harold Ickes representing the United States.

It is unfortunate, says the financial editor, that the conference is due at the moment when the British Cabinet is not firmly in the saddle and preoccupied with other questions. So far British representatives have not been selected or briefed and no representatives of British-owned oil industry invited.

It does not seem likely that any move will be taken implying general control of output or sales, and indeed the immunity of American industry from control seems further guaranteed by inclusion in the Ickes party of six representatives of United States domestic products. It is likely that any agreement reached will not commit either side very far.

Plea for Aid Turned Down

Esquimalt Municipality's appeal for a $250,000 grant from the Dominion Government in place of taxes from large naval and military holdings in the municipality has been turned down, according to a letter received yesterday by Reeve Thomas Hadfield from Hon. J. L. Riley, Minister of Finance.

"I can only repeat to you what I said to Premier John Hart," Mr. Hadfield wrote, "namely that the Crown in the right of the Dominion Government must adhere to its traditional position of immunity from municipal taxation."

Mr. Riley pointed out that many other municipalities were similarly affected to a greater or lesser degree, and that the problem could not be solved by an arbitrary grant of so much to each municipality. There was little possibility of any grants being made, he said, unless there was some change of Federal policy based on exhaustive investigation.

Reeve Hadfield reported that the convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities at Qualicum had endorsed Esquimalt's appeal for "reasonable and adequate compensation in lieu of loss of taxes and for upkeep of roads and public works."

Mill Bay Ferry May Be Resumed

Announcement that he had purchased the former Mill Bay ferry from the Cascade Towing Company, and hoped to enter into arrangements with the Provincial Government to resume the Mill Bay-Brentwood ferry service, was made yesterday by A. H. New, 89 West-Pender Street, Vancouver.

Mr. New returned to Vancouver yesterday for a few days. He plans to move his family to Victoria.

No comment was available in Government quarters.

The Mill Bay ferry suspended operations early this year when the Cascade Towing Company announced it could not operate on the revenue available through ferry charges and Government subsidy. The Department of Public Works called for tenders for the service, but no bids were received.

Major H. C. Holmes, president of the Chamber of Commerce, announced at the quarterly meeting yesterday that the vessel had been purchased and hoped the service would soon be resumed.

He mentioned efforts of the Chamber of Commerce to obtain the service at the beginning and attempts to have it resumed.

Killed in Accident

William Jewell, 22, whose mother lives at 310 Vancouver Street, was killed on Monday at Snag Yukon Territory, when the car in which he was riding overturned, according to word received here yesterday. A former member of the Canadian Scottish Regiment and an employee of the B.C. Electric Railway Co. Ltd., Mr. Jewell was employed at the Snag government radio range station. Born in Brandon, Man., he attended Margaret Jenkins and Victoria High Schools.

His father, Ernest Jewell, died on July 15. A brother, in the army stationed at Calgary, will come here for the funeral.

Penicillin Expert

Administering penicillin and blood plasma to wounded on the beaches of Normandy was one of the tasks allotted Q.M.S. G. K. Sammon, R.C.A.M.C., who is due aboard a troop train at Vancouver today. His wife, who lives at 1025 Bewdley Avenue, crossed to Vancouver last night with other relatives of repatriates.

who plan to meet returning men at railway stations.

Q.M.S. Sammon's job in Normandy did not last long, however, since he was wounded himself after taking part in the "D" Day landings and working on the beaches for three days. He was sent back to hospital in England.

Formerly a bacteriologist at Letterman Hospital, San Francisco, Q.M.S. Sammon was engaged in research with Dr. Fleming, discoverer of penicillin, and Maj. McCartney, of Edinburgh University.

Among other R.C.A.M.C. personnel expected on today's trains are R.S.M. S. J. Bichard, S-Sgt. Ted Wace, 333 Hampshire Road, and Lieut. Ian Fraser, who was formerly stationed here.

Also arriving are Capt. T. J. Morrison, R.C.O.C., and Maj. Harry Bruin, C.M.S.C., who has been stationed at Canadian Military Headquarters overseas. Mrs. Morrison, 1489 Fort Street, with twin son and daughter, Dennis and Diane, and Mrs. Bruin, 1100 Esquimalt Road, crossed to Vancouver last night.

Family of Sergeants

Two sons and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Vincent, 466 Moss Street, are sergeants. Sgt. Neil Vincent, R.C.A.P., arrived home from overseas yesterday. Sgt. Fred Vincent, in the Canadian Postal Corps, received his discharge a month ago and will shortly return to his work at the Victoria Post Office. He married while in England. Sgt. Pauline Vincent, C.W.A.C., is stationed at Vancouver.

Sgt. Neil Vincent, a radar mechanic, served with R.A.F. units throughout his overseas tour in England, France and Belgium.

Now Presumed Dead

M.O. Douglas Bailey, reported missing in action on January 17, is now for official purposes presumed dead, according to word received from R.C.A.P. Headquarters by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bailey, 1978 Forrester Street.

P.O. A. F. Hymers, rear gunner in P.O. Bailey's aircraft, who parachuted to safety, told in a letter to Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, how their son and the rest of his crew died in the crash of a flaming bomber.

Born in Victoria, P.O. Bailey joined the R.C.A.P. in February, 1943. A former president of the British Columbia Conference, Young People's Union, United Church, he had intended to study for the min-

LT.-COL. ALAN CHAMBERS, O.B.E., D.S.O., former Liberal M.P. for Natalino riding and candidate for that riding in the last Dominion election, who has been appointed district administrator of veterans' affairs for the United Kingdom at London, according to an announcement by Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Veterans' Affairs.

Lt.-Col. Chambers will probably go overseas at the end of November. Enlisting in the "Canadian Scottish Regiment" in 1940, he went overseas as a reinforcement platoon commander in the First Canadian Division at the end of 1941, and specialized in operational intelligence. He was promoted to captain in September, 1942.

He served with the First Division in Italy, and on Gen. Eisenhower's staff throughout the Battle of France and Germany. He was promoted to major in May, 1944. Engaged in secret operations against the German High Command, he was given an immediate award of the D.S.O. for bravery in the Channel Islands in September, 1944, and promoted to lieutenant-colonel in December. In May, 1945, he was awarded the O.B.E. for his work at Supreme Headquarters.

Welcomes Son Home

Mrs. Violet Holmes, 341 Vancouver Street, who has welcomed thousands of servicemen home in her capacity of assistant commandant of Victoria Red Cross Welcome Bureau, will be at the C.P.R. Dock this afternoon to meet her son, Gnr. Albert "Happy" Holmes, R.C.A.

men returning to Victoria after long periods overseas.

Gnr. Holmes, who enlisted on the day war broke out, has been overseas four years and nine months. He fought at Caen, and in the semi-aquatic campaign in Holland after the opening of the dikes, and celebrated "V-E" Day in Germany. His friend, Gnr. Douglas Whyte, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Whyte, 168 Beechwood Avenue, has been with him nearly all the time since leaving here in 1941. Gnr. Whyte took part in the first D-Day landings.

Occupation Duty

Lt. Barry Lane, R.C.A.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert V. Lane, 1048 Pendergast Street, now home on leave, expects to return soon with occupation forces to Germany, joining the P.P.C.I. at the age of 19. He saw active service in Italy, Holland and Germany.

His brother, Douglas, was lost when the freighter Vancouver Island, on which he was chief steward, sank with all hands after being torpedoed by a German submarine.

Wins Military Medal

Award of the Military Medal to Gnr. David George Hayward, Comox, son of George Hayward, 7231 Cadboro Bay Road, has been announced by the Department of National Defence.

"He performed his duties faithfully and with no regard for personal safety or comfort," the citation states. "The performance of his duties involved long hours of exposure to enemy shell and mortar fire as well as many nights without sleep."

Gnr. Hayward, wireless operator in the observation post crew of a gun battery, continued to man his post through one entire day and night under heavy shelling. Once the building which housed his wireless carrier received a direct hit, which showered the carrier with falling bricks and masonry.

Daylight Saving

There have been repeated hints from Ottawa that the Dominion is about to promulgate the end of daylight saving as a war measure in Canada. Glad as people will be to be rid of daylight saving in winter—when there was no daylight to be saved—there are many who would regret to see Canada withdraw entirely from this field, where for the first time there was uniformity on the matter. Whether through Federal action, or by agreement between the Dominion and the provinces, the working benefits of daylight saving ought to be preserved. This could be done.

Each year as the sun rises higher in the heavens the ends of the day stretch out. Late Spring, Summer and a good part of Autumn, in these northern latitudes, have a good deal of daylight in them. Daylight saving, while it does not alter the sun, shifts the working day more fully into that period where daylight is a benefit, and to considerable numbers of people. And that will remain the same even though war stops.

No one wishes to go back to the days when Victoria took one course and Vancouver another with daylight saving regulations. That merely inconvenienced everyone, and transportation services particularly. In the war, however, national agreement on the matter did bring uniformity. Daylight was saved in those parts of the year when there is some to be saved. The nation's business was adjusted more closely to what the sun was doing.

We quite agree that Ottawa should end the anomaly of "daylight" saving in winter and at the end of the year when there is no added daylight involved. On the other hand, having found a good thing, why should Canada not preserve the best part of it? Astrophysical and meteorological offices would be glad to advise the Dominion on the technical questions involved. The public, in so far as we are aware, does not want to see the whole thing merely abandoned. Trim daylight saving by all means, but keep that part of it which proved useful and served.

Battle Patches

Men with battle patches are beginning to appear on our streets; with various colors, and sometimes the unit emblems as well. These are the men who fought for us where the fighting was, and to whom victory is directly owed. Sensitive, and frequently acutely so, these veterans do not like being stared at; nor do they wish to be cold-shouldered and ignored. They want most of all to be treated like other citizens, with whom a word, a nod or a friendly smile is often in season.

For all of its surface differences, Canada is at one on the treatment it wishes for its battle veterans. It wants the best. Many of these men will need a good rest before they are ready for work. They will want to get as far as possible from all associations favoring of the services. It takes a while to re-establish the mind to civilian ways. Meanwhile, they do not wish to be cold-shouldered and ignored. They want most of all to be treated like other citizens, with whom a word, a nod or a friendly smile is often in season.

Sympathetic and kindly understanding can do more for these men than all the plans on paper, put together and tied with red tape. The community, the neighborhood block, the dwelling place, and all those who live in them, can help. The battle veteran has a difficult period of readjustment to go through. He has a war to leave behind, and a new life to pick up. After his furlough, he will want to dig in again at his stake in this his homeland. There, the community can help the better if it has learned to know the individual veteran, his special aptitudes, and those wishes which may be closest to his heart.

Rehabilitation is an individual sum, but with its correct answer everyone in this land is concerned.

Parliament Must Be Heard

Under the heading of "Criticism Parliament's Duty," The Globe and Mail, Toronto, commented editorially recently on the touchiness of Mr. Mackenzie King in response to opposition in the House. Our contemporary advised the Prime Minister to study what he himself had said while leader of the Opposition, and that is sound advice. Said The Globe and Mail, in part, and we quote:

"Events within the nation clearly indicate that there is no need of interpreting to or stressing for the people the importance of the present session of Parliament. It will be realized by most that in facing the many stern problems of reconstruction, not all of which have been identified by any means, the Government will need the co-operation and, at times, the guidance and leadership of its Parliamentary Opposition. There may well be occasions when its legislation will depend for passage on the votes of that Opposition."

"Stability of administration and the need for decisive action are matters which, as these columns have pointed out, do not allow for compromise with narrow, partisan or sectional self-interests. But neither does their attainment demand the continued servility of Parliament in obedience to an arbitrary Ministry. On the contrary, the first task of reconstruction, and a prime function of the present session, is the re-establishment of the supremacy of Parliament. It is the more strange, therefore, to find the Prime Minister retreating behind the cry of non-co-operation to complain about the criticism voiced by the

Throne Speech

"Mr. Bracken did criticize the Government policies and criticized the Administration for what the Speech had failed to say on specific matters of immediate national concern. But it scarcely is to be construed as a refusal to co-operate to condemn what is regarded as ineffectual or to urge more vigorous action than has been provided for. In sessions still well remembered Mr. King missed no opportunity to criticize Mr. Bracken's absence from the Commons Chamber and his failure to fill what the Prime Minister properly regarded as the important and responsible office of Leader of the Opposition."

"It behooves Mr. King to remember the past; to give pause to recollect where he is, and that times have changed. There has been an abundance of evidence that he and many of his ministers have become addicted to the heady brew of arbitrary authority. But the emergency in which he has carried personalized Government no longer exists. To escape the habit, it might be well for him to go back to earlier times and review the speeches of W. L. M. King, Leader of the Opposition, on Parliament, its supremacy and its function."

Unconvinced

Little by little, as the record is fitted together, the reluctance with which the Japanese Army clique bowed to capitulation in the war is being made manifest. Up to the very end, the Japanese military propaganda told the people to prepare for invasion, and said that invasion would be turned back. Up to the last moment of Cabinet and War Council discussions, after the Japanese Emperor had been consulted, the army clique were trying to persuade the Emperor, the Government and the people that the Japanese Army could win on the home soil.

The arguments used to do so were specious, and they failed. The enemy's surrender followed, but it was not the act of the Japanese Army party. The Japanese General Staff and its generals were still fighting a rear-guard action within the nation itself. They said that the main Japanese Army had not been in action, and could be used to defend the islands of Japan. They said that the atomic bomb could not be used again, with United Nations troops on Japanese soil. They said that Russia could be stayed off, and the Allies fought off in a long delaying siege. The army party lost when the Japanese Emperor appointed a blood relative as Minister of War. The army could neither retire nor assassinate him. The surrender followed, in due course.

These circumstances, however, will have to be borne continuously in mind. The Junkers of Germany were not convinced after the war of 1914-18. The Japanese sword-rattlers are not convinced after the war of 1939-45. If they are given a single chance, they will bide their time and attempt to try again. They must not be given that chance. Too much is at stake for the world. The ring-leaders must be rooted out, and those who would emulate them must be discouraged effectively.

Independents

Neither the Progressive Conservative Party nor the Liberal Party in British Columbia stand to gain from the nomination of independent candidates in the forthcoming provincial general election. Former Premier Pattullo is mentioned as an Independent Liberal in Prince Rupert, having never taken part in a Coalition which, in fact, cost him his office. Now Progressive Conservatives in Saanich have announced that they plan to run an independent candidate there. The C.C.F., at least, will be pleased. Every breach in the ranks of mainline parties will benefit the C.C.F., without contributing much, if anything, to the fortunes of those parties. In the coming election, the issue clearly will be between the Coalition and the C.C.F. Even if independents won their seats there would not be much they could do with them. However, this is a free country. On October 25, it is the electors who will have the last word.

Woodland Peace

Sweet as Eden is the air,
And Eden sweet the ray,
No Paradise is lost for them
Who foot by branching root and stem,
And lightly with the woodland shore—
The change of night and day.

Here all say,
We serve her, even as I:
We brood, we strive to shy,
We gaze upon decay,
We wot of life through death,
How each feeds each eye spy:
And is a tangle round,
Are patient: what is dumb,
We question not, nor ask
The silent to give sound,
The hidden to unmask,
The distant to draw near.

And thus the woodland saith:
I know not hope or fear;
I take what'er may come;
I raise my head to aspects fair,
From foul I turn away.
Sweet as Eden is the air,
And Eden sweet the ray.

French Election

By PERTINAX

North American Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—A diplomat who was lately in Paris and conferred at length there with Edouard Herriot, Edouard Daladier and Leon Blum, emphasizes that in one respect the three party leaders still erect on the ruins of the Third Republic make identical forecasts.

eral elections on October 23.

They feel sure that the new Assembly will confirm General de Gaulle as head of the Provisional Government. They fail to see any other man in public life who could be chosen to take his place. Since liberation day, one year ago, the resistance movements have been unsuccessful in so far as they did not bring forward any politicians or administrators qualified to take charge of the country. But to this day no political figure has emerged to counterbalance General de Gaulle.

Competent observers risk another prediction. A majority of French electors is likely to put itself on record against the re-establishment of the Third Republic of the 1875 Constitution. The masses seem to have been won to the idea that, within the framework of democratic institutions, an altogether new experiment must be made. They consider that the executive branch of the Government needs to be strengthened and ought not to conform any more with the old pattern. The oligarchic Senate, a characteristic feature of the Third Republic, is held in particular discredit.

But the Radical Socialist party under Herriot, the soul of the Third Republic in the last twenty years, is aware that any change is bound to go against it. It tries very hard to convince the electoral body that the 1875 Constitution is unduly held responsible for France's disaster. It joins issue with General de Gaulle on the referendum which, next month, is to take place at the same time as the election of the representatives of the people. Referendum and plebiscite, so runs the Radical Socialist argument, pave the way to a dictatorship.

To this argument, Leon Blum, leader of the Socialists, has a ready answer. In his judgment, the moment the Radical Socialists begin to disagree with other parties by maintaining that the former constitutional law had better be re-enacted, the controversy could only be referred to the people for final decision. In other words, according to Blum, the attitude of the Radical Socialists makes of the referendum a practical necessity.

But here is the doubtful point. The electors may accept the continued leadership of General de Gaulle, and show great readiness to part with the old constitution. But whether they will approve of General de Gaulle's recommendation concerning the working of the Government during the period the new constitution is being put into shape, is a very different question. The electors may be reluctant to invest the Provisional Government with full power to override the elected Assembly in matters which do not appertain to the making of the constitution. They may also be unwilling to limit to seven months the existence of that assembly. On such counts, it cannot be taken for granted that the voters are going to back General de Gaulle.

If all through the country the trend has really turned toward the left, an omnipotent Assembly holding the Government in strings is, at least, a possibility. Would General de Gaulle then resign, rather than put up with a lessening of the authority he has wielded for a year?

Blum does not want the Premiership for himself. His ambition, today, is to fulfill a moral function in the interests of public peace. He knows that his return to office or for that matter, the elevation to the supreme post of any of his friends would play into the hands of the pro-Vichy men still very numerous in the upper classes. He will be in favor of some working arrangement between General de Gaulle and the left. But, at best, this could only be described as a makeshift and in the Autumn of 1946, when the French people are called upon to accept or reject the new constitution and in select the Assembly for which it will provide the era of compromise would come to an end.

From a reader: "Before the Civil Defence organization disbanded, members should parade to Beacon Hill Park so that citizens may have the opportunity of seeing the men and women who devoted hours of their time to training for an emergency which might easily have taken place. Bearing in mind that most members are serving on in years, the parade should be short, say, from Douglas Street along Hornby Avenue to the park. Every hand in the city should turn out and be so speeded that all taking part would have music for marching. The parade might compensate Civil Defence members for the insult from the committee which neglected to invite them to participate in the 'V-E' and 'V-J' Day parades."

Canadians Fought in Grim Hongkong Battle

Part II

By WILLIAM STEWART

Canadian Press War Correspondent

The Royal Scots held the key position of the Shingmun redoubt and on the night of December 9-10, a company of the Grenadiers commanded by Capt. A. S. Bowman, of Winnipeg, crossed to the mainland to provide close support. As it turned out, the Grenadier company covered the withdrawal.

Shingmun fell the same night, when the Japanese advanced with armored spearheads. The mainland defenders started to fall back toward the harbor. By the morning of December 13 the mainland had been evacuated, with the troops crossing to Hongkong in whatever craft they were able to board.

Japanese shells were dropping now into the waterfront area of Hongkong and some accurate fire was directed at the concrete positions on the island even before the Rajputs, last troops to leave the mainland, crossed to the island.

During the three-day evacuation period the island defences were reorganized, with the Canadian battalions being placed in different brigades. The Eastern brigade was made up of the Royal Rifles, Rajputs, elements of the Middlesex Battalion and some volunteers. The Western brigade, commanded by Brig. Lawson, comprised the Grenadiers, the Scots, Punjabs and also some Middlesex men and some volunteers.

The first Japanese move toward Hongkong came the night of December 15-16 following a heavy bombardment from the Kowloon area. It was a dark night and the Japanese crossing in boats was made in the northern area of the channel near the positions occupied by a platoon of the Royal Rifles. Whether the Japanese attempt was a reconnaissance in strength, a diversion or a full-fledged attack, was not known definitely, but it was beaten off, though some of the enemy worked their way into the hills. From then on there was sniping into the defence positions.

As the Japanese crossed again in strength on the night of December 18-19 the Hongkong defenders were strung out, with the Punjabs occupying the western end of the island, which includes the city of Victoria. The Scots were in the central positions on the northern side and the Rajputs to the east and north-east. There were no perimeter positions on the north face of the island occupied by the Canadians.

The real battle of Hongkong lasted a week after the Japanese landing in the Taihook dock area, at Quarry Bay and at North Point, which was enveloped in heavy smoke from oil fires started by shelling. At midnight the Japanese, wearing rubber-soled sneakers, had reached the summit in a gap between Mount Parker and Mount Butler, having cut through the Rajput positions in the darkness.

Southeast of the Indians' positions, a Royal Rifles company suddenly came under rifle fire from a position overlooking their defences in the Lei Mun Gap. The company fell back after carrying out counter-attacks in which casualties were suffered.

The Japanese worked up toward the top of the 1,500-foot Mount Parker, looking down on the northern eastern channel and dominating the hills around. Meanwhile, platoons of Grenadiers engaged the Japanese pushing southwest in the area of Jardines Lookout, a feature due west of Mount Parker.

A Grenadier company, commanded by Maj. A. B. Gresham, of Winnipeg, was ordered to a position in little Hongkong on the southern side of the island and came under personal command of Brig. Lawson. Moving forward to meet the Japanese, the company was ambushed and with few exceptions every member was killed or captured.

In their infiltrating advance the Japanese crawled along concrete water troughs, winding around the hills for catchment purposes, and by dawn, Brig. Lawson's brigade headquarters area was under direct attack.

Dr. G. Clifford Clark, director of the Provincial Museum, accompanied by G. A. Hardy, botanist and entomologist, and Frank L. Beebe, artist and birdman for Vancouver Parks Board, made the study, and are now preparing the information they gathered. It is hoped it may ultimately be combined with data gathered by the British Columbia Forest Service and the Department of Mines into a publication giving full information on Manning Park.

RELIEF CLOTHING

Sir,—That millions of good people, by means of their generous instincts, can be herded "into" organizations where individual preference has no chance of asserting itself, by voting, etc., is a bad outlook for democracy.

type of international world set-up that Mr. Churchill has repeatedly warned us against. For instance, the blitz aimed at England, that took the form of anti-magicians against "the old school tie" was not because of the said tie symbolized wealthy classes. Far from it, it was because the rooted adherence of England's old school tie to democratic government represents the strongest check on long-range plans that the new totalitarianism has to contend with.

A letter to me from a Southern California lady will explain more clearly what I mean.

Said she (abbreviated): "In The Colonist of August 31 I read your letter re-cessation of relief clothing to England. Six years ago I organized a group working for the British War Relief of Southern California. I myself, working for the British agency, packed and shipped cases earmarked for Greece, France, Belgium, etc., besides those destined for England."

"When our President of the British War Relief Society took the presidency of the A.F.L. and C.I.O., labor organizations, as members of our board, a change in policy was very noticeable. We were more than surprised, and indeed terribly grieved, to receive orders that work must cease on September 1. It has ceased. Also orders were given that all records on file of whatever nature must be destroyed, except the lists of names and addresses of members and workers, which were to be sent to headquarters with cash books, used receipt books and accounting correspondence. The records from England tell us of dire need of child clothing. (Is this why records must be destroyed?) Parental garments too worn-out to be cut down for children. In many working groups besides our own the thought is 'have politics a stranglehold on our relief work?'"

The bracketed comment in the above letter is mine. Food and clothing sent to England would bolster democracy.

MINORITY RIGHTS

Sir,—We are not here to be led by majorities," says Dr. McLeod, and your correspondent, Donald H. Seymour comes back with "The first principle of... democracy is that we are here to be led by majorities and not by minorities."

Without taking sides on the question of the sale of intoxicants, but as a believer in democratic principles, I suggest that Mr. Seymour overlooks the significance of the little word "democracy." A democratic principle of the utmost importance is the safeguarding of minority rights, among which is the right of a minority, as of an individual, to influence opinion, openly, of course, and by every lawful means, with a view to the ultimate emergence of the minority as a majority. This principle is so vital to the very machinery of democracy, that I almost feel that I should apologize for restating it.

REGISTERING PATIENTS

Sir,—I am here with a broken hip and will be for some time. I was on the Dominion voters list in Victoria area, also the Oak Bay municipal list, as I have property there.

The social service lady phoned the main provincial office (907 Government Street) for me, asking what provision is being made to enable disabled patients in the hospital to be enrolled, and also if my name is on the list in either place. The reply is my name is not on in either place and it will be necessary for me to get a pollster to come and take an affidavit in order to get my name on.

The whole thing is cumbersome and will result in a large number of patients being disfranchised. Why cannot a properly qualified person visit both hospitals and register the persons who are entitled to vote?

Canadian Prisoners Clubbed By Japs Slaved in Coal Yards

By WILLIAM STEWART

Canadian Press War Correspondent
MANILA, Sept. 13 (CP).—One of the toughest prison camps in which Canadians were held in Japan was at Niigata, a city of 1,000,000 population some 150 miles north of Tokyo, where starving prisoners performed hard labor under clubbings in coal

There were 250 Canadians there and 89 of them died of pneumonia, beriberi and dysentery during their stay there from September, 1943, until they were liberated. The prisoners were undernourished and without medical supplies.

During the winter it was bitterly cold and the camp was swept by great snowstorms, one of which made it necessary to move from one barracks to another through snow tunnels. During one period storms tied up railway traffic and the camp was isolated for three weeks. Practically until the moment they were freed most of the prisoners believed they would spend their last days in Niigata.

At various times the prisoners lost up to 60 pounds, some of which they made up by stealing food while on one warehouse job. When they were caught stealing the prisoners were clubbed until they couldn't walk.

Private Leonard Mulvaney, of Winnipeg, saw an American prisoner clubbed to death in February, 1944, and a Canadian was forced to stand outside the guardhouse for four days in freezing weather, wearing only his trousers and without shoes. He suffered severe frostbite and died later.

The Canadians were taken to the camp from Osaka just two years ago. They were addressed upon arrival for work by a stringy, bearded Japanese who seemed to have charge of all prisoner labor in the Niigata area. He soon came to be known as "bluebeard."

"You are my slaves. You are the accendents of the Anglo-Saxon piracy that we are fighting today. You are here to work and you shall work until you die and be glad to."

"If you prove to be willing workers we will send you home when the war comes to an end. That will be when the Americans, on their hands and knees, are begging for mercy. It will be the year 1950."

"Though you are sick in body and mind your hands belong to me."

Mulvaney, who is looking for his twin brother, Tom, from whom he was separated months ago, said the Canadians agreed that "bluebeard" looked just like "Creel," a character in the Popeye comic strip.

The taskmaster addressed the prisoners several times in the same fashion, chuckling as he spoke, pulling at his beard and sometimes rubbing his hands with delight.

The Canadians started work in the coal yards, where they pushed around loaded cars weighing a ton. At first they were barefoot. They were semi-starved and weak. The first address by "bluebeard" left them all feeling they were condemned to die slave labor for the Japanese for the rest of their lives.

When the prisoners left the camp in the morning for the Rinko coal yard they drew breakfast and lunch rations at the same time. But the rations were so meagre that the men ate them all at once and had to go without lunch. Work lasted from 7 a.m. until noon and from 1 p.m. until 6 p.m.

Mulvaney said he went to his knees often while trying to push a ton of coal along the tracks of the conveyor from which it was dumped. Coal came to Niigata from Northern China and Manchuria.

Company Sgt.-Major Vic Myatt, of Vedun, Que., though sick, did his best to fight for better conditions for the prisoners but had little success before he was transferred to

After a year at the Rinko yard some of the Canadian group were moved to Marutau to work in a warehouse. Mulvaney was among them, but he spent two months in hospital before he was able to do any labor.

Just before the prisoners at Niigata were liberated last month, "bluebeard" disappeared. On the day they were freed a number of the prisoners, including Mulvaney, broke out of the barracks and conducted a search for the Japanese overlord, intending to kill him.

Another Japanese at Niigata was just the opposite to "bluebeard," and sometimes took beatings himself when he spoke up in defence of the prisoners. His name was Hura Hashi and he often told the prisoners that the United States was "Ich Bon"—No. 1.

Hura Hashi presented Mulvaney with two Japanese pipes before the Canadians left the camp, boarded a train for Tokyo and then flew to Manila.

Mulvaney was so surprised by the sudden liberation that he couldn't believe it when he got on the train for Tokyo and suspected there must be a catch somewhere.

When he arrived at Tokyo and saw American soldiers and nurses Mulvaney fainted.

Demand Dismissal Of Labor Official

VANCOUVER, Sept. 13 (CP).—Demand for dismissal of James Thomson, chief conciliation officer of the Provincial Department of Labor, because "he is unsatisfactory to labor," will be raised at the next meeting of Vancouver Labor Council (C.C.L.), President W. White, of the Boilermakers' Union said today.

Mr. White said he had telephoned to Minister of Labor George Pearson protesting against Mr. Thomson's refusal to count the ballots marked yesterday in the bargaining agency vote at West Coast Shipyards Wednesday. He said Mr. Pearson said he would investigate the situation.

"Both ourselves and the other group (United Welders, Cutters and Helpers) asked that the vote be

Falls From Tenth Story and Lives

MONTREAL, Sept. 13 (CP).—A 45-year-old window cleaner, fell from the tenth story of the Bank of Nova Scotia Building here today, crashed into a wire netting eight floors below, and was able to smile and talk as an ambulance took him to hospital.

Hospital authorities said extent of his injuries had not been determined, but hope was expressed that they were not critical.

counted, but Mr. Thomson has seen fit to disregard us and cause further delay, induced by company pressure," Mr. White said.

Mr. White said Mr. Thomson had refused to count the ballots because of a complaint by W. D. McLaren, West Coast general manager, that the union had distributed a leaflet using Mr. McLaren's name to influence the vote.

Yesterday's vote was the second in a week, the first one having been de-

Canadian Publishers May Get Additional Newsprint

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (CP).—Canada may follow the lead of the United States in abolishing Government controls on newsprint and in increasing allocations to publishers for the fourth quarter of the year, Duncan MacInnes, secretary of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, said here tonight.

Mr. MacInnes said his association hoped the American action foreshadowed a similar step in Canada and thought it "quite possible" that it would do so.

John Atkins, Prices Board administrator of printing, publishing and other allied industries, left tonight for Montreal to confer with other Prices Board officials on the situation. Mr. MacInnes said, and an announcement concerning it might be made in Montreal tomorrow.

If restrictions on the use of newsprint are eased in Canada, publishers will be free to boost the size of their papers, all of them slimmed by wartime paper shortages, Mr. MacInnes said. This probably will result in expansion of staffs and inclusion of new departments and features in many papers, he suggested.

MONTREAL, Sept. 13 (CP).—Paul Kellogg, newspaper official with the Prices Board, said tonight that while no definite plans have been announced with regard to the relaxing of controls on the use of newsprint by publishers in Canada, "it would be quite reasonable to suppose" that Canada will follow suit if the United States lifts Government controls December 31.

He said also that Canadian publishers would receive a proportional increase in their newsprint quota for the final quarter of 1945, in line with the one-degree increase announced in Washington for United States newsprint users.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP).—All controls of the United States Government on newsprint will be abolished December 31, it appeared likely today and paper allocations to American publishers will be increased for the fourth quarter.

Relaxation of newsprint-usage restrictions one full degree in the sliding scale formula of deductions beginning October 1 and revocation of limitation Order 240 at the end of the year were recommended by the newspaper industry advisory committee at a two-day session with War Production Board officials, the agency announced.

National Y.W.C.A. Council Contacts Only Relative

The amazing story of how a 14-year-old Polish girl now in a refugee camp in East Africa recently located her only relative without knowing his first name but believing he had come to Canada, was made known here today by the National Council, Y.W.C.A.

First word of the girl's plight to reach the Y.W.C.A. was through the International Institute of Boston. Kazimiera Rajpold, a Polish war refugee, was anxious to locate her paternal uncle living in Canada, although she did not know his first name nor in what town or city he had settled, the institute said. She had lost all her other relatives. Would the Y.W.C.A. please help.

Immigration officials at Ottawa provided the information that a Piotr Rajpold, born about 1894, had entered Canada in 1928 and was to be employed by the C.N.R. at Winnipeg. All Western branches of the Y.W.C.A. were then asked to try and locate this man through their local newspapers.

In reply to an account of the girl's search in the news columns of an Edmonton newspaper, the following letter was received, from Evansburg, 70 miles west of Edmonton: "I am giving you some of the information you wanted to know. P. Rajpold was born in 1894 and came to Canada in 1928. I'm an uncle of Kazimiera Rajpold." Signed: P. Rajpold.

Needless to say the glad news was soon relayed by the Y.W.C.A. to the International Institute of Boston, which in turn has notified the young girl.

Pensioners' Tag Day on Saturday

The Canadian Pensioners' Association of the World Wars I and II will make their only appeal for funds from the public on Saturday, when they hold their annual tag day. Work of the association is on a purely voluntary basis and is done for ex-servicemen of both wars.

The main objective of the association is to give assistance to veterans, their wives and children and their dependent parents. All deserving cases and legitimate cases are brought to the attention of the Federal Government, and since formation of the association, 1,100 such cases have been successfully completed.

Many cases for veterans of this war have been handled with very satisfactory results, and it is expected that work in this connection will greatly increase after demobilization of the services.

All during the war, the association sent cigarettes and comfort to men of the three services in the field of battle. A great number of prisoners were also taken care of during this period.

The association has no revenue

4X QUALITY Bread

A PRODUCT OF CANADIAN BAKERIES LIMITED

The Experts Say

OTTAWA, Sept. 13 (CP)—The home economists of the Agriculture Department Consumer Section tell me they receive many queries as to what they mean when they use the term "shortening" in their recipes.

According to these experts any mild-flavored fat, including butter, lard, vegetable fat or blended shortening, which is a combination of vegetable and animal fats, is called shortening.

There is, of course, a difference in these fats—butter contains about 15 per cent water and is salted, while lard is 100 per cent fat, and vegetable fats are usually hydrogenated and whipped to incorporate some air to make them fluffy. The two latter fats are unsalted.

Generally speaking, any of these mild-flavored fats may be used interchangeably in recipes, without making adjustments in the amounts of any of the ingredients.

Here is an unusual type of fruit shortcake with many points in its favor. This dessert recipe is a sugar saver, a fat saver and is substantial enough for meatless meals. On top of these good qualities, peach custard shortcake, which comes from the experimental kitchen run by the Agriculture Department, is really simple to make. Other types of fruit may be substituted for peaches, of course.

Peach custard shortcake: Sift and measure one cup of pastry flour or one cup less two tablespoons of all-purpose flour. To sifted flour add 1/2 teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of baking powder and one teaspoon of sugar, and sift together. Cut in two tablespoons of shortening until mixture resembles fine breadcrumbs. Combine one egg with 1-3 cup of milk and add slowly to the flour mixture, blending to a soft but not sticky dough. Grease a nine-inch pie tin, roll dough and line tin. Slice five small peaches and cover dough with them.

Custard mixture: Beat one egg slightly, add 1-3 to 1-2 cup of sugar and 1-4 cup of milk and pour this custard mixture over the peaches. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees Fahrenheit, for 10 minutes. Then reduce temperature to 350 degrees Fahrenheit and continue baking until custard is set, about 30 minutes. This makes six servings.

Recent experiments have shown that rose hips, black currants and pine needles contain amazing amounts of vitamin C. However, we can't eat black currants every day, and rose hips and pine needles certainly aren't customary articles of diet, so most of us will have to continue to depend on more familiar sources for our daily supply of vitamin C.

Oranges and grapefruit are well known for their valuable vitamin C content, but people are not so aware of the fact that green vegetables contain vitamin C. Vitamin A and iron, too. Broccoli, a delicacy of the cabbage family, has a high rating.

Raw broccoli, says the Nutrition Division, taken weight for weight, contains 2 1/2 times as much vitamin C and 11 times as much vitamin A as oranges. Broccoli is also an excellent source of iron.

Because vitamin C is so easily destroyed in cooking, the nutritionists emphasize the importance of using a minimum of water and cooking the greens only until tender.

Sparkle for Girls' Postwar Uniforms

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (CP)—When a member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps returns to civilian life and wants a smart new outfit, all she has to do is to strip her khaki uniform of epaulettes and patch pockets, send it to be dyed black and dry-cleaned and sew on a set of sparkling black buttons. She will then have a smart-looking suit at a cost of about $5.

Mrs. Hilda Roe, chairman of the Toronto Remake Centre of the Price Board's Consumer Branch, introduced the idea at a remake show here tonight.

Tomorrow's Streamlined Kitchen Is Coming Soon

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 (CP)—Life in the kitchen can be easier hereafter if women have the inclination and money to buy time and labor-saving gadgets.

The nature of things to come was ascertained in a canvas of manufacturers which coincide with recent announcements that new household appliances would begin reaching retail markets in limited quantities this fall.

Upcoming equipment has streamlined thing-of-beauty motif, but the fundamental aim is utility rather than Utopia.

Fewer shopping trips are envisioned for homemakers who freeze food or stock up on frozen or prepared foods.

Freezing and frozen food storage units ready for production range in size from midsize, four-cubic-foot models for small apartments to big "walk-in" coolers of 150 cubic feet earmarked especially for farmers.

Most of them will embody the two-temperature feature, with separate compartments for freezing foods and for storing them after they're frozen.

Many refrigerators also will have a separate, insulated compartment for storing frozen foods.

Cooking ranges with waist-high broilers should signal the end of bending double to see what's cooking. Most of them will have two "saute" burners. Why leave the assembly line for the bread line? Register and vote C.C.F.

Racketeers Watch Vet's Gratuities

The new wealth being distributed in the form of gratuities makes racketeers feel that servicemen are their fair game. A classic case of profiteering on the desperate need of a returned soldier for a house is the story of the repair who was sold a two-room converted garage for $3,950 by an Edmonton firm.

The building had cost the firm $1,800 (the assessed value was $1,000). The original building cost had been about $450. Advised against the purchase by rehabilitation officials, the soldier had gone ahead and made the down payment because of the need of a roof over their heads for his English wife and their child.

Fortunately the man had to see the Veterans' Affairs officers in order that his re-establishment credit might be used to help pay the cost. On further investigation they and the Legion officials persuaded the firm to return the down payment already made, as well as helping him find another place.

All cases have not ended as well for the service person. There have been transactions reported where the down payment—often consisting of more than the veterans' gratuity—was not recoverable. To help prevent such swindles the Department of Veterans' Affairs urges returned men to see the official D.V.A. representative before they actually invest any money or make commitments which involve the use of their re-establishment credit. They are also urged to consult businessmen who know local conditions for advice about any other investment.

King, Mrs. M. Harrison, Mrs. Giles and Mr. Shandley. A movie will be shown in the school auditorium on September 28.

At the first Esquimalt P.T.A. meeting of the season, held Tuesday, Mrs. Floyd reminded members of the drive for clothing for devastated Europe, and urged them to get their bundles of clothing ready. Mr. T. O. Penon suggested that Parent-Teacher Associations make a recommendation to the Dominion Government to reserve one or more suitable located airports in each province to be used as recreational centres for underprivileged children under suitable supervision. The airports are equipped with swimming pools and exercise grounds for every kind of sport, with large buildings called hangars which could be used when weather is unsuitable for outdoor sports. They have mess rooms and dormitories for large numbers, also concert halls or auditoriums in which to show movies, educational or otherwise, to give concerts and accommodate gatherings of every sort. The facilities at these airports are ideal for the purpose suggested, and it is hoped the Government will give consideration to the idea, and that it will be generally adopted by interested parties throughout the country.

Y.W.C.A. Activities

Of special interest this year to Y.W.C.A. club members is a drama club, which will hold its first meeting on Friday, October 5. A series of eight lectures has been arranged by Major Bullock-Wylder. Mrs. W. H. Wilson will again direct the Arrangements are also being made for a madrigal group.

In addition to these weekly events the regular clubs for young business women and young married women will start their Fall and Winter club season. Programs include music, handicrafts, dances, folk dancing, discussions, service projects, group worship, cultural education, citizenship and opportunities for Christian leadership.

Thursday, September 27, is the night chosen for "Open House," and a peppy program has been arranged.

Dominion Offers
A Dramatic Story

After searching as far north as Santa Rosa for a typical California Mexican community which could be used as a location for "A Medal for Benny," Paramount's scouts found one close to home. There is a street called Paduca in the Elysian Park district of Los Angeles so perfect for the purpose that it was immediately chosen without change. The company worked there seven

The picture, a warm human story, tells how glory comes to a small California town when one of its paucino soldier sons is awarded a Congressional Medal of Honor posthumously. It is based on an original by John Steinbeck and Jack Wagner. The picture opens today at the Dominion Theatre.

PLAZA Jack Oakie and Peggy Ryan are the stars of Universal's "That's the Spirit," now showing at the Plaza Theatre. The new comedy-drama, said to be completely original and a radical departure in this type of entertainment, shows what happens to a vaudeville magician after he dies and goes to heaven. Climax of the unusual plot is his return in spirit to influence the lives and careers of those he left behind.

ATLAS Blending love, laughter, theatre and jargon, International's lavish Technicolor-musical extravaganza, "Belle of the Yukon," which is now showing at the Atlas Theatre, stars Randolph Scott, Gypsy Rose Lee, Dinah Shore and Bob Burns. It is laid in Alaska during the gold rush. The film includes a group of Johnny

There's No Time to Explain

A wild moment in "A Medal for Benny" puts Arturo de Cordova in hot water as Dorothy Lamour displays a little of her Latin temperament. J. Carrol Naish tries peace-making with no success in one of the picture's more hilarious scenes. A simple story of California's Mexican paisanos, the movie opening today at the Dominion Theatre, co-stars Dottie and Arturo with Naish in the chief supporting role.

Burke-Jimmy Van Heusen songs which accent the hilarious plot. William A. Seiter produced and directed and R.K.O. released.

RIO Wanda McKay, the Golden West with William Boyd in the latest "Hopalong Cassidy" action picture, "Twilight on the Trail," was once "Miss American Aviation." "Twilight on the Trail," with Brad King and Andy "California" Clyde in the cast, is now showing at the Rio Theatre.

YORK At last the world-renowned story of "Kismet" has achieved its fullest glory. The famous Edward Knoblock play has been brought to the screen in glorious Technicolor and with an outstanding cast by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, headed by Marlene Dietrich and Ronald Colman, is now playing at the York Theatre.

CAPITOL First dramatic offering, THEATRE of significance to rehabilitation of our war veterans, "The Enchanted Cottage," now showing at the Capitol Theatre, stars Dorothy McGuire, Robert Young and Herbert Marshall. In the Pinero drama, Young portrays a crippled bomber pilot who, unable to endure the pity of his family and friends, returns to a lonely cottage New England.

Seeking Men for Peacetime Navy

Intensified recruiting for the permanent force of the Royal Canadian Navy is now under way, according to an announcement received yesterday from Victoria divisional headquarters.

Physically fit, young men having education requirements of at least Grade VIII, and preferably Grade X, are required in a number of branches in Canada's peacetime navy.

It was also announced that ratings who have been demobilized, or honorably discharged from the service, may re-enter the R.C.N.V.R. on signing on for a two-year period, if physically fit.

Full particulars may be obtained from local divisional headquarters, H.M.C.S. Malahat, 1388 Government Street.

Chemistry Career Interests Girls

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (P)—The early postwar world offers women great career opportunities in chemistry, says the first woman chairman of the New York section of the American Chemical Society.

She is Dr. Cornelia T. Snell, of Foster D. Snell, Inc. (consulting chemists and chemical engineers, of Brooklyn, N.Y.), and author of a number of books on chemistry.

"We are going to be short of chemists for several years, even though the war is over," said Dr. Snell, a pretty blonde, as she sat in her Park Avenue apartment the other day. "Our young chemists were taken by the military services unless they were doing essential war work. There have been almost no young men graduates in chemistry during the last few years."

There is going to be a big post-war gap and someone must fill it," Dr. Snell was born in Binghamton, N.Y., taught high school mathematics two years, married her girlhood sweetheart, Dr. Foster Snell, in 1921, and since then has devoted her working life to chemistry.

Mrs. Snell has been most active in her husband's company, which develops chemical formulae for cosmetics, household products and other things manufactured by industrial companies.

Shirley's Fiance Will Hitch-Hike

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 13 (P)—Sgt. John C. Agar, whose engagement to Shirley Temple, 17-year-old screen star, was announced last June, said today he hoped to hitch-hike a ride to Los Angeles by Army bomber for their wedding next Wednesday.

When the engagement was announced, wedding plans were left indefinite pending the sergeant's furlough. The blond, 24-year-old, six-foot sergeant said today the army had granted him the 15-day furlough but he was having difficulty getting travel reservations. He said he is hoping to leave tonight or early tomorrow for California, but with reservations on commercial planes a problem he is pinning his hopes on an Army bomber.

Former Coastal Vessel Heads for Greece

THE 1369-ton Ss. Camosun, former coastal passenger and freight vessel of the Union Steamship Company, which operated between Vancouver and the Queen Charlotte Islands, arrived at Los Angeles yesterday on her way to Greece. She was bought from the Union Steamship Company by Greek interests less than a month ago. She served along the coast of British Columbia for five years, and was at one time operated by Canadian National Steamships.

While at Los Angeles the 40-year-old ship will be supplied with a complete set of United States navigational charts prior to proceeding on her long journey to Greece. It is expected she will call at Gibraltar en route.

Upon arriving at her destination, the Paisley-built vessel will operate between Greece and Palestine.

Beatrice Fairfax

(Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Dear Miss Fairfax: I'm a young man of 23 years and the girl I'm in love with is five or six years younger. Her brothers say I'm not in love with her and that it's only my imagination.

I've been married four years, but didn't marry for love. I had to marry the girl because she was going to have a baby. And now we're going to get a divorce. My wife says she never loved me and wants to be free.

The girl I'm really in love with is the first love of my life and I don't know whether she loves me or not. She told my brother she'll go with me after I get a divorce. How can I find out whether she cares for me? —J. P. S.

As you're not divorced and the girl has said she will not go with you until after you're free, why don't you give all parties concerned more time? You've had one unhappy marriage—why run the risk of making another with a girl who is little more than a child? And there is the question of your son, who is not responsible for all that discomfort, elements that have entered into his young life. He's really the one who has my sympathy.

You'll probably think I'm an old grouch, but I'd suggest that at 23 years of age you wait a little while before marrying a second time.

Final arrangements for the annual rummage sale to be held for the Victorian Order of Nurses, Saturday, September 29, were made at the first board meeting of the season, Tuesday, in the Pemberton Building, Mrs. Norman Yarrow presiding.

Mrs. E. Mallett, convenor of the sale, reported that members of the board and others had been generous with their donations, and that in order to co-operate with the National Clothing Drive to start October 1, the warmer clothing donated to the sale would be forwarded to U.N.R.R.A. headquarters. Books, bric-a-brac, costume jewelry, etc., would be welcomed as rummage sale material.

Donations for the sale will be collected if telephone calls are made to Mrs. E. Mallett, G 2970, and Mrs. J. Arnott, B 1744.

Miss Marjorie Baird, V.O.N. supervisor, compared work of Summer 1944 and Summer 1945 in her report.

There were 219 more visits made this Summer than last, and 20 more cases. Throughout June, July and August there were 785 cases cared for, including 210 medical and surgical, 58 pre-natal, 163 mothers with new babies, 335 calls for health instruction, and 142 communicable disease patients. Clinics totalled 31, with 191 new patients and an attendance of 814. There were 47 attendants at the informal pre-natal classes held.

Mrs. Russell B. Horton reported for the Nurses' Advisory Committee, and Mrs. E. H. W. Elkington reported for the Motors' Committee.
